

of their membership one of another, who accept one another, communicate with one another, and who (understanding their own interdependent nature) choose to use their experience creatively, in co-operation with other people. In short it is to enable people to live creatively in a creative community, harmoniously blending their independence with the independence of others, the modality being love. " (18)

REFERENCES :

1. cf. Gittens John. Annual Meeting of Community Home Schools. U.K. 1978.
2. Berger. P. " Invitation to Sociology " Penquin.
3. cf. Furlong Rev. Bro. T. Unpublished paper 1979.
4. cf. Murray P. " Emptying Children's Homes " Community Care. 1/2/79 pp 26 - 28
- Statistics available from Depts of Education, of Health and of Justice.
5. cf. Brennan P.D. " Religious Orders play main role in Residential Care " Community Care 19/7/78 pp 26.1.
6. vide Kellmer Pringle M. Concern No. 17, Summer 1975 p 27
7. cf. Milner P. " Counselling in Education " Bent.
8. cf. Ingleby D. in " The Integration of a Child into a Social World " Edit. M.P. Richards. Cambridge
9. vide Kellmer Pringle M. " The Needs of Children " Routledge Kegan Paul. London
10. vide Newson J. & E. " Four Years Old in an Urban Community " Penquin.
11. Orwell G. " Wigan Pier " Penquin.